c. Woodruff again expressed his strong feeling that in some form there should be an acknowledgment of the total CIA budget figure. He would prefer to see it as a statement in the Committee report on [REDACTED] but it could be handled as a statement by the Chairman to the full Appropriations Committee. He said he could not guarantee that this would not eventually lead to an erosion of the secrecy of CIA budget details but he feels the members of the CIA Subcommittee can hold the line for at least the next ten years. He said of course the Committee would not do this unless the Agency agreed but he feels that in the present climate in the Senate some such arrangement must be made in the near future. He said in the final analysis members of the Senate feel they have a right to pass judgment on the total Agency budget figure.

He said he was not sure whether it was Carl Duckett's briefing or what but something really sold the Chairman on [REDACTED] He recalled the letter which the Senator sent to Helms and Packard on the subject which, as Woodruff put it, told them he didn't care which choice they made between the two programs as long as it was in favor of the [REDACTED] Mr. Briggs commented that perhaps we should change the name of [REDACTED] to [REDACTED]
